

2033 THE STORY OF GELERT

A long, long time ago there was a prince. His name was Llewelyn and he lived in Wales. He was the Prince of Wales.

Llewelyn loved hunting. He had lots of dogs. But his favourite dog was Gelert. And this dog loved Llewelyn.

Gelert often stayed in Llewelyn's house. He always looked after Llewelyn's baby boy. He was very gentle.

One day Llewelyn left the house and went hunting with his friends. Gelert stayed at the house with the baby.

It was a nice, sunny day and it was warm. Llewelyn and his friends went to the mountains on their horses. They played games, went hunting and had a picnic.

In the evening they all came back to Llewelyn's house. Everybody was happy. But something was wrong. Gelert was at the door of the house.

Llewelyn ran into the house. He couldn't see the baby. There was blood everywhere. Llewelyn looked at his dog.

There was blood on Gelert. Llewelyn was angry – very angry. He took his sword and killed his dog.

Suddenly Llewelyn heard a noise. Something was under the baby's bed. He picked the bed up. It was his baby boy. He was OK.

Llewelyn picked the baby up. He was so happy to find him. And then he saw a wolf near the bed. It was dead.

Now Llewelyn knew what had happened. The wolf had come into the house and Gelert had killed it. Llewelyn was very sad.

He made a grave for his dog. Today you can visit that grave in Beddgelert – that means "Gelert's grave" in Welsh.
